

“Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says.” James 1:22

Context

Who wrote the book? Most agree that this book was written by James, _____.

To whom was it written? James speaks as a pastor to _____.

When was it written? James was written between _____, making it one of the earliest New Testament books.

Facts about James:

1. 20 references to the _____.
(Joy in trials – James 1:2 and Matthew 5:11. Doing, not just hearing – James 1:22 and Matthew 7:24. Producing fruit – James 3:10-12 and Matthew 7:16.)
2. The writing style is _____.
Short, punchy sayings rather than long discourse.
3. There are _____ direct calls to obedience.
4. Central Theme:

_____.

Chapter 1

- A. Trials are meant to make us _____ and are an amazing opportunity to model Christ to both believers and unbelievers alike. (Verses 1-4)
- B. We can ask God for _____ because He is the author of wisdom, and He desires to equip us with the things we ultimately need. (Verses 5-10)
- C. Regardless of our financial situation or material security, we may find _____ in Christ even in the midst of trials. (Verse 11)
- D. Those of us that remain _____ to Christ will be rewarded in our future (heavenly) lives. (Verse 12)
- E. God does not _____, but He will provide the way of escape as referenced in 1 Corinthians 10:13. (Verse 13-15)
- F. We can take joy in knowing that we serve a God who gives good and perfect gifts and does not _____. God is constant in an ever-changing world. (Verses 16-18)
- G. If we take a step back and do not respond in anger, it will save us and others heartache and _____ in the process. (Verses 19-20)
- H. Being a doer of the Word means _____ God’s Word, _____ it into our hearts, and obediently _____ what it says even when we do not feel like it. (Verses 21-25)
- I. True religion is doing _____ as opposed to doing what we feel like doing. (Verse 26-27)

“Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says.” James 1:22

Context

Who wrote the book? Most agree that this book was written by James, _____.

To whom was it written? James speaks as a pastor to _____.

When was it written? James was written between _____, making it one of the earliest New Testament books.

Facts about James:

5. 20 references to the _____.
(Joy in trials – James 1:2 and Matthew 5:11. Doing, not just hearing – James 1:22 and Matthew 7:24. Producing fruit – James 3:10-12 and Matthew 7:16.)
6. The writing style is _____.
Short, punchy sayings rather than long discourse.
7. There are _____ direct calls to obedience.
8. Central Theme:

_____.

Chapter 1

- A. Trials are meant to make us _____ and are an amazing opportunity to model Christ to both believers and unbelievers alike. (Verses 1-4)
- B. We can ask God for _____ because He is the author of wisdom, and He desires to equip us with the things we ultimately need. (Verses 5-10)
- C. Regardless of our financial situation or material security, we may find _____ in Christ even in the midst of trials. (Verse 11)
- D. Those of us that remain _____ to Christ will be rewarded in our future (heavenly) lives. (Verse 12)
- E. God does not _____, but He will provide the way of escape as referenced in 1 Corinthians 10:13. (Verse 13-15)
- F. We can take joy in knowing that we serve a God who gives good and perfect gifts and does not _____. God is constant in an ever-changing world. (Verses 16-18)
- G. If we take a step back and do not respond in anger, it will save us and others heartache and _____ in the process. (Verses 19-20)
- H. Being a doer of the Word means _____ God’s Word, _____ it into our hearts, and obediently _____ what it says even when we do not feel like it. (Verses 21-25)
- I. True religion is doing _____ as opposed to doing what we feel like doing. (Verse 26-27)